A PHYSICIAN'S OPINION.

"I have been practicing medicine for twenty years and have never been able to put up a vegetable compound that would, like Simmons Liver Regulator, promptly and effectively move the Liver to action, and at the same time aid (instead of weakening) the digestive and assimilative powers of the system."

ABSENCE.

I struggle, shrined within a deep content,
The hours I go companionless of thee;
For we have learnt together love is meant
To make each bloom by mellow husbandry.
So, 'mid the acres of this teeming earth,
Where once I toiled in barrenness of soul,
And scorned each dry success, and saw no worth
In dreary pieces of a dreary whole—
Now, with thine image, when thyself's not by
I hold communion, and my step is light;
For thou dost champion each feat I try,
And oft I laugh aloud in my delight,
And catch my own voice saying oftenwhiles,
"'Tis thus her eyes are, and 'tis thus she smiles."

—Owen Wister in Lippincott.

A Woman Stops a Runaway.

Mrs. Rollin M. Squire, who is one of the noted horsewomen of New York was out riding in Central park one day recently, when a runaway saddle horse dashed by her. The rider, white faced, had dropped his reins and was clinging to his pommel for dear life, while the animal was bolting along at his topmost speed. Mrs. Squire's saddle horse, Harker, is one of the best trained animals in the world, and as intelligent as a human being. He wheeled about, even before his mistress could lightly pull the rein, and as she gave the word followed after the runaway. Harker is a Kentucky thoroughbred with tremendous speed and soon overhauled the bolting horse.

Mrs. Squire quietly seized the fallen reins, and as the two horses ran along together brought them gradually to a standstill, Harker doing his part as if he had been in the business of stopping runaways all his life. The scared horseman was all confusion and thanks, of course, but the mounted policeman, who came slowly up, was both philosophical and complimentary, as he touched his hat and said, "Begging your pardon, Mrs. Commissioner, for having yez the bad job, but I saw yez would get to him first and I slowed up a bit, becaz I knowed you were good for the baste."—New York Press.

Remembering a Wealthy Widow.

Much is said and written about the responsibilities and disadvantages even of great wealth. Still, there must be times when to be able to do things en prince has its compensations. One of our lovely young American matrons whose residence has been in London for a number of years enjoys an intimate friendship with the daughter of one of England's richest peers. Recently the husband of the New York woman died in London, and later the bereaved wife came back to her native land. From the moment of her affliction until she sailed away to be with home relatives her friend lavished upon her the most delicate yet sumptuous attentions.

Boxes of rare orchids and other exotics came daily from the magnificent conservatories of the English woman, together with hampers of choice fruits from her hothouses. Every day a visit, a message or a gift to testify to her constant thought and sympathy. Loving letters followed her to this country, and a few weeks after the widow's arrival in New York she received a package from her friend which when opened disclosed a rich jewel casket. Within it lay a necklace of superb pearls, and on the giver's card was written, "I send you the tears, congealed, which I have shed with you in your sorrow."—New York Times.

Princess Louise of Denmark.

Princess Louise of Denmark, who is expected to marry Prince Eugene of Sweden, gets her name and some of her blood from the Queen Louise of Prussia, the most beautiful woman who has belonged to the Berlin court. The line of descent is: Queen Louise; her youngest daughter Louise, who married the Dutch Prince Frederick; Princess Frederick's daughter Louise, who became queen of Sweden; the Swedish queen's daughter Louise, who married the crown prince of Denmark. Princess Louise is said to have inherited a good part of the beauty of the famous queen whose name she bears. She is sixteen years and three months old, and is the third of eight children.

Her prospective husband, the Duke of Nerike, is twenty-six years old, and the fourth son, although only the third son from the Swedish throne, as the second son gave up his right to succession on marrying a woman outside of the pale of royalty. He has studied industriously with the best painters in Paris, and is an artist of high abilities, as well as a man of more regular and abstemious habits than the average European prince.—Paris Letter.

Flirted with His Mother.

A Toledo society woman has played a good joke on her son by attending a swell private masquerade and allowing him to flirt with her; nay, more, ask for a kiss without the faintest suspicion on the young man's part as to who the fair charmer was. He followed her about the entire evening, and when the time for unmasking came was at her side ready to catch the first glimpse. Imagine his chagrin.—Cleveland World.

Mrs. Brander, who is inspectress of the Girls' schools in Madras, India, and has at heart the interests of 22,000 children, says in her tenth annual report to the National association "that an improvement in female education is necessary before any of the great reforms, such as the abolition of infant marriage and child widowhood, can be effected."

Miss May Robeson, the bright young actress who made a success in the role of a maid in "Nerves," adds to her regular profession the business of designing theater souvenirs. She has been the author of all those given at various places of amusement in New York city during the season just closing.

Miss Marie R. Schiller, who will be one of the three women to visit South America for the purpose of interesting the women of that continent in the World's fair, is highly educated and accomplished, speaking Spanish, French and German as fluently as she does English. She is a Philadelphian.

Floating Prairies of Louisiana.

A curious phenomenon is to be witnessed at the Ames' crevasse, and, indeed, is one of the causes of the great damage it has done. Under any circumstances the water from this crevasse would overflow the rich country lying between it and the gulf of Mexico, causing damage to the amount of several million dollars; but to the surprise of many, not content with running down stream and overflowing the country below, it has taken to running apparently up stream.

Some curiosity was felt over this phenomenon, and the case on examination shows it to be due to the prairies tremblantes—the floating or trembling prairies of southern Louisiana. All along the gulf coast the large border of land floats on the surface of the water. The land is made by fallen timber and grasses. It gradually accumulates dirt and becomes in the course of time sufficiently firm to support brushes and even trees, but the soil is only three inches or little less thick, and below it is the water, upon which it floats on account of its lightness. Occasionally pieces of trembling prairie are detached and become floating islands.

There are quite a number of these in Salvador, these lands, floating from side to side, being frequently carried at a rapid rate by the breeze, trees acting as sails to catch the wind. The current from the Ames crevasse has carried these floating islands down stream and torn a number of others from the trembling prairies.—Cor. St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Mr. Tilden's Disputed Will.

Two judges have decided in favor of the Tilden will and two judges have declared against it. The case will soon be argued before the New York court of appeals, which will finally decide whether New York is to have the $5,000,000 library or whether Tilden's great bequest is to be absorbed by his nephews.

No man doubts that it was Mr. Tilden's purpose and intention to found a great public library with his money. He carefully executed a trust for that purpose, and died in the belief that the bequest was so well guarded that his heirs could not have it set aside by any quibble of the law. And yet a purpose so plain and unmistakable has been declared invalid by two judges, who interpret a law which is described as "the perfection of common sense."

It is this extremely technical interpretation of the laws' provisions on the part of law judges that justifies the presence of lay judges on the bench of New Jersey. Among the lay judges of the New Jersey court of appeals there would not be two opinions regarding the intentions of Mr. Tilden in the testament he executed prior to his death. They would unanimously decide in favor of the will. And so, in fact, would our law judges, who have on some notable occasions demonstrated that with them law is, indeed, the perfection of common sense.—Newark Journal.

Costly Litigation.

A case involving seventy-five cents claimed by a man in Toledo to be due him from another Toledoan for cow feed has just been appealed from a justice's court in that city to the Lucas common pleas. The plaintiff says he will spend his last dollar to collect the money by process of law, and the defendant says he will sacrifice every cent he has in the fight to resist payment. The result will probably be that the litigants will spend several hundreds, perhaps thousands, of their own money and involve the county in the expenditure of a large sum, all to gratify their personal ill feeling. There ought to be a provision of law covering such petty cases, making the decisions of justices final. It is an outrage on the taxpayers to permit the appeal of such insignificant cases to a higher court, where valuable time is consumed by them that should be devoted to more important matters, and the county is involved in a great expense simply to gratify the personal spite of obstinate litigants.—Sandusky Register.

Spontaneous Homage to an Artist.

A pretty scene took place on Tuesday at the art exhibition of Buda-Pesth. A competition had been opened for a monument to the Hungarians who fought for freedom in 1848, and nine models are at present being exhibited pending the decision of the jury. Tuesday a fashionable crowd was discussing the merits of the works, when a pretty young lady, following a sudden impulse, took a little bunch of violets from her dress and laid it on the pedestal of one of the models. All the women present crowded round, applauding her choice, and each in turn laid the flower she was wearing on the plaster model, which is the work of a young sculptor named Joseph Konas. Whether he gains the prize or not he has certainly been distinguished in a very delicate fashion.—Cor. London News.

Miss Parker, Architect.

Miss Minerva Parker, the architect of the Woman's Century club building, in Philadelphia, and the Isabella pavilion of the World's fair, is a slight, willowy young woman with a Madonna face, from which the dark hair is combed back smoothly, and beautiful dark eyes. Nothing in dress or demeanor would indicate that she was an unusual woman or knew so much more about Doric arches and Corinthian columns than about fancy work and cake recipes.—Exchange.

A New Lighthouse Burner.

There was recently exhibited in Dublin a new burner for lighthouse use, possessing twice the illuminating power of the largest burners now employed. It is calculated that this new burner, in connection with a specially devised system of lenses, will transmit a light equal to about 8,000,000 candles, which far exceeds the most powerful light at present used.—New York Times.

In recent Russian trials to test the adaptability of snow breastworks against an enemy's fire, it was found that a thickness of six feet was a perfect protection against bullets fired at 300 paces. Packing the snow and pouring water over it to make a crust of ice was found to keep bullets out when the thickness was only three feet and one-half.

The Silent Club.

A queer club was once established in London, under the title of Silent club. The members were bound to express themselves at all club meetings, as far as possible, without words. The first rule of the club was, "The members of this academy shall think much, write little, and be as mute as they can."

On one occasion a new candidate applied for admission. But the members were limited and all vacancies filled. A meeting was called, the candidate was to be introduced, and the president was to announce his decision. When the gentleman entered the members, who were all his friends, were as much disappointed as he that he was to be refused. As he approached the president rose and silently handed him a cup of water, so full that a single drop would have made it overflow.

The applicant perfectly understood what the president meant, but he was courageous and quick witted. Without speaking, he took from his button hole a single rose and laid it gently on top of the water. He laid it on so softly that not a drop was displaced, and handed it back to the president with a bow.

With one consent the members applauded. They resolved to put their rule aside, and to admit the man who showed them that he could ornament their society without hurting it.

Then the man thanked them in an equally curious way. When the register was handed him to be signed he wrote below his name the number of the club members—100. He added before it a 0, making it 0100. Underneath he wrote, "Their value will be the same."

The man was so modest that the President complimented him immediately by rubbing out the 0 and substituting the figure 1. This made the number 1,100. Underneath he wrote, "Their value will be increased eleven times."

These ingenious people must have devoted a great deal of time and thought to avoid using their tongues.—Harper's Young People.

Pay of School Teachers.

The question of teachers' salaries is one that is always more or less agitated. In Scotland it becomes of grave import, as settling the question whether it is possible or proper for a man teacher to marry. The majority of opinions have settled that $400 is the minimum, though this question was started by a few who thought that $600 was the lowest limit in which marriage was feasible. In the meanwhile in New York city the school board has recently decided that it is unjust to the teachers and a disgrace to the city to allow women who have taught fourteen consecutive years to receive less than $750, and that after January next they shall receive this amount. This applies to 359 women.

In Massachusetts a short time ago a girl who was a normal graduate had had charge for a year of one of those country schools, part intermediate, part grammar, with the primary branches on the lower floor, and had given entire satisfaction to parents and committee. Everything was running smoothly when the girl was taken ill. She received at the time ten dollars per week. No other woman substitute being found to take charge during her absence, the committee engaged a man at fifteen dollars per week. The man was not a disciplinarian. The boys had a picnic, as they called it, yet when the girl returned and asked for the same pay the substitute had received she was refused, for the avowed reason that she was not a man.

This may be the woman's century, and tidings of their progress and doings may be rife in the land, but there are still sections where as yet these have not made much impression. Fortunately soon after she received a good position at a good salary in the normal school from which she had graduated.—Brooklyn Eagle.

He Will Not "Make Her Obey."

In a Sheffield church the other day a marriage ceremony came to an abrupt and altogether unlooked for termination. It was the fault of the would be bridegroom, and most people will say in losing his bride he met his deserts.

The ceremony went on right enough till the clergyman, addressing himself to the woman, put the question whether she would have the man to be her husband, "to love, honor and obey."

At the mention of the word "obey," the bridegroom ejaculated, "I'll make thee."

"Are we married yet?" asked the woman of the clergyman.

"No, you are not," he replied.

"Then we shall not be," she said, and thereupon she left the church.

The man protested that it was too late, but she heeded him not, and his discomfiture was made none the less when the parson told him that he thought she had acted very sensibly.—London Tit-Bits.

A Brilliant Colored Greek Scholar.

Miss Mollie E. Church, who has been at the head of the German department of the colored high school of Washington for several years, has been offered the position of registrar of Oberlin college. Miss Church graduated from Oberlin in 1884 with distinguished honors, being specially mentioned for her excellent record in Greek. She traveled and studied abroad for three years, spending much of her time in Paris, Berlin and Florence. If she accepts the offer from Oberlin she will be the first colored graduate, it is said, of the older universities to become a member of the faculty of her college.—Boston Woman's Journal.

Lillian Abducted by a Bear.

A most remarkable circumstance occurred near Edgewater two weeks ago. Miss Lillian Young, a fair and promising girl of twenty, daughter of John T. Young, of this place, was caught by a brown bear, which had been lurking around the neighborhood for some time, and carried away to the mountains. Traces of her have been found as far up as Rip Shin creek, but nothing further can be heard. The animal had formerly been in some show, and had several times been seen by persons crossing from mountain.—Lynchburg Advance.

AN Act was passed by the last Legislature which makes it incumbent on the wife to sign with her husband deeds of conveyance of community property. The San Diego Union in commenting on the new law, says: "The act at first glance looks simple enough, but in the opinion of some lawyers it will not tend to simplify titles of property in this State, and may be a source of much additional land litigation; for in the future no married man can alone make a good title to any community property, real or personal, unless his wife joins in the conveyance. And even if a man is unmarried the only safe thing to do in the future will be to have him described as unmarried in the conveyance. When a husband alone conveys community property it will not assist the purchaser much even if the deed recites that the property is not community property and discloses an apparently valuable consideration paid for it for these recitals, if untrue could not affect the wife's rights, she not being a party to the instrument. A person may accordingly purchase a property in good faith next week and yet have his title become unmarketable immediately afterwards if his vendor's wife, not being a party to the effect that her husband has been attempting to defraud her out of her rights by attempting to give away their community property, or what is the same thing selling it at a ridiculous low figure. In legal opinion the act is a careless piece of legislation though it is based on sound principle. As the act stands it is said by good authority, every person in the future must assume, at his risk, that his predecessor in title, if a grantee from a husband, was not in collusion with him to deprive his wife of her community rights. The act without any qualications says that voluntary transfers, i. e. gifts of community property, whether real or personal property, by a husband are altogether void so far as the wife is concerned. There is no saving clause in favor of bona fide purchaser from the husband's grantee or otherwise.

A MAN in Clay, who owes us over two years subscription, put his paper back in the postoffice last week marked "refused." We have heard of many mean men. There is a man who used the wart on his neck for a collar button, the one who pastured a goat on his grand-mother's grave, the one who stole coppers from the dead man's eyes, the one who got rich by giving his five children a nickel each to go to bed without supper and then stealing the nickel after the children were asleep; but for pure downright meanness the man who will take a paper for years, mark it "refused," and then stick it back into the postoffice, is entitled to the first premium.—Lakeville Democrat.

THE most precious wine in the world is that contained in a cask named the "Rose," in the Bremen Town cellars. It is Rudesheim Rhine wine from the year 1653, and the cask is replenished by degrees whenever wine is drawn with carefully washed and dried gravel. It is never sold, but destined exclusively for the sick of Bremen, who receive a very small quantity on production of a doctor's certificate. At present the supposed value of this unique wine has so increased that a bottle containing eight glasses would cost 18,000,000 marks, a glassful 2,000,000, and a drop 2,346 marks.

JOHN L. SULLIVAN, actor and ex-pugilist, will play at the theater in Santa Rosa, in a tragedy called Honest Hearts and Willing Hands, next Saturday night. John, your heart may be "honest" but durn your "willing hands." We make the cowardly admission that we are afraid of them, and decline to participate.—Petaluma Imprint.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

SATURDAY, June 13th.

The Board met in special session at the Court House, Santa Rosa, at 11 A. M., all the Supervisors being present.

The meeting was called to adopt at once specifications, plans and details for the construction of concrete sidewalks and stone curbing in front of the new Hall of Records and Jail and to advertise for bids for same, and to order necessary work to be done in reference to the placing of the furniture and fixtures in said Hall of Records and prepare the building for occupancy as soon as possible.

After a long discussion, in which contractor Meany and Superintendent Burkhalter participated, a motion was passed instructing the Clerk to advertise for bids for the construction of the sidewalks, bids to be received up to 11 A. M., July 7th.

The Clerk was also instructed to notify the Office Specialty Company to set up the furniture for the Hall of Records as soon as the building is in readiness to receive it.

Important Trade Name Decision.

Judge Thayer, of the United States Circuit Court at St. Louis has recently handed down an opinion, and granted a perpetual injunction against the defendants in the case of the Hostetter Company against the Bruggeman, Reinert Distilling Co., alias Gold Spring Distilling Co., prohibiting the advertising, manufacturing or selling of any article of stomach bitters, either in the bulk, by the gallon or otherwise, or in any way making use of the name "Hostetter" except in connection with the sale of the genuine bitters, which are always sold in bottles securely sealed and also prohibiting the sale of any bitters in bulk, though the name "Hostetter" be not used, but the suggestion made to the purchaser that he can put them in empty Hostetter bottles, and purchasers would not discover the difference. His decision supports the Hostetter Company in the exclusive use of the name "Hostetter" in connection with the manufacture or sale of stomach bitters in any manner or form whatsoever, and firmly establishes its ownership in the name Hostetter as a trade name.

The Secret of Moltke's Power.

"Learn to condense" is a bit of commonplace advice often given to students of literary composition, but the lesson of the great field marshal's life shows the value of the admonition in every form of work, from the management of an army to the writing of a letter. There was no waste in Moltke, not even a waste of words, and men said of him that he could be silent in many languages. The reason was that he had learned to combine his faculties and direct them all in harmony to the purpose of the hour.

He needed all his energies for action, and because even talk must draw for sustenance upon the nervous forces, he said little. He had brought his own faculties under drill and discipline, and in like manner he could condense the energies of a kingdom into a cannon ball, compact and irresistible. He drew eight corps of the Prussian army from divergent points and converged them upon Sadowa in the critical moment of battle, as a lens concentrates the sunbeams. The center of the Austrian army melted under the heat, and when the sun went down upon the field Austria had no longer either voice or vote in the politics of Germany.

By his irresistible mathematics he worked out the doom of the French empire long before the challenge of Napoleon came, so that when the proclamation of war was made he had nothing to do but touch the little button that set in motion all the complex machinery of the German army, and move it like the sweep of a sword across France to the field of destiny by the ramparts of Sedan.—M. M. Trumbull in Open Court.

A Bachelor Converted.

One of the standard toasts at most of our important and many of the informal dinners here has been, "The ladies—God bless them!" and the response is usually made by Mr. John R. Van Wormer, who is a witty, rapid, energetic speaker, and whose comments as a confirmed bachelor upon the charms of the other sex are always a delight to hear. Mr. Van Wormer is probably known to as many politicians and prominent men as any person of his years in New York. He was for a long time in intimate relations with Senator Conkling, serving as the clerk of his committee and as his private secretary. He was also chief clerk of the postoffice department when General James was postmaster general, and is now the manager of the largest safe deposit company in the city.

But Mr. Van Wormer will no longer be called upon as a confirmed bachelor to expatiate upon fair women at public dinners. He has capitulated; he has found the fairest of women; he has lowered his independent flag and salutes one of the most charming of her sex, and he is receiving congratulations by the score. He is soon to marry Mrs. D. Demorest Lloyd, whose husband was a very successful playwright and journalist, and whose sudden death was a great bereavement to a large circle of friends.—E. J. Edwards in Philadelphia Press.

is more especially than any other a hereditary disease, and for this simple reason: Arising from impure and insufficient blood, the disease locates itself in the lymphatics, which are composed of white tissues; there is a period of fœtal life when the whole body consists of white tissues, and therefore the unborn child is especially susceptible to this dreadful disease. But there is a potent remedy for scrofula, whether hereditary or acquired. It is Hood's Sarsaparilla, which expels every trace of the disease and gives to the blood the quality and color of health. Get Hood's.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"When my boy was two years old he was attacked and suffered a long time with scrofula sores. The physician at length told us to give him Hood's Sarsaparilla, which we did. Two bottles cured him. He is now 10 years old and has not had any sign of scrofula since. We recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla to all our friends." MRS. E. C. CLIPPER, 8 Kidder St., Cleveland, O.

The Safest

AND most powerful alterative is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Young and old are alike benefited by its use. For the eruptive diseases peculiar to children nothing else is so effective as this medicine, while its agreeable flavor makes it easy to administer.

"My little boy had large scrofulous ulcers on his neck and throat from which he suffered terribly. Two physicians attended him, but he grew continually worse under their care, and everybody expected he would die. I had heard of the remarkable cures effected by Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and decided to have my boy try it. Shortly after he began to take this medicine, the ulcers commenced healing, and, after using several bottles, he was entirely cured. He is now as healthy and strong as any boy of his age."—William F. Dougherty, Hampton, Va.

"In May last, my youngest child, fourteen months old, began to have sores gather on its head and body. We applied various simple remedies without avail. The sores increased in number and discharged copiously. A physician was called, but the sores continued to multiply until in a few months they nearly covered the child's head and body. At last we began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. In a few days a marked change for the better was manifest. The sores assumed a more healthy condition, the discharges were gradually diminished, and finally ceased altogether. The child is livelier, its skin is fresher, and its appetite better than we have observed for months."—Frank M. Griffin, Long Point, Texas.

"The formula of Ayer's Sarsaparilla presents, for chronic diseases of almost every kind, the best remedy known to the medical world."—D. M. Wilson, M. D., Wiggs, Arkansas.

Across the Deep, to the Far West,

On steamboats, cars and stage coaches, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is carried as the most important item in the materia medica of the traveling public. It deprives vitiated, brackish water of its hurtful properties and execrable flavor, counteracts the pernicious effects upon the stomach of bad or indigestible food, remedies cramps, heartburn and wind upon the stomach. It is a fine defense against malarial disorders, nullifies the effects of excessive heat, cold and damp, relieves sick headache, and is an incomparable cure for costiveness and biliousness. The fatigue of travel often tells most disastrously upon invalids and convalescents, occasionally to such an extent as to jeopardise life. Persons in feeble health, apprehensive of bad effects from travel, will, if provided with the Bitters, be far less likely to have their fears realized.

The real estate agency connected with this office offers this week a splendid opportunity to obtain one of Sonoma Valley's small gilt-edged farms at a bargain. The place is located only one mile from Sonoma and contains 55 acres of highly improved land with title perfect. On the farm is a living spring of water. Nine acres is in vineyard and about 12 acres in orchard, all in full bearing; dwelling house, barn and outbuildings. Every acre of the land is first-class farming land. The crop on the place goes with the bargain. This is one of the finest opportunities ever afforded for securing a highly cultivated farm cheap in this valley and such a chance may not occur again for years. The place must be sold to close up an estate and in order to hurry up matters is put upon the market at the remarkably low figure of $8,000. Ask any one that knows the place what it is worth and you will be told this is a bargain at the above figure.

SHOOTING AFFRAY.

Two Men Blaze Away at Each Other at Close Range.

Eight Shots Fired---Both Men Come Out of the Battle Unscathed.

On Saturday afternoon last E. E. Griffith, a farmer residing a few miles south of town, and a Sicilian named Severino, living on an adjoining ranch, met in the road which divides the two farms, and became involved in an angry altercation. Pistols were drawn almost at the same instant by the men, who were only a few feet apart, and they commenced shooting at one another as fast they could pull the triggers of their guns. After eight shots had been exchanged hostilities ceased, both men withdrawing to their respective ranches in good order. One of the combatants fired three shots and the other five, and, singular to relate, neither was hit, although both men are said to be good pistol shots and are accounted "nervy." An unneighborly feeling has existed between Griffith and Severino for some time on account of the former impounding some stock belonging to the latter which he found trespassing on his premises, and when they met last Saturday the men exchanged civilities as mentioned above.

High School for Sonoma.

The County Superintendent of Schools has been petitioned to call an election in Sonoma, San Luis, Huichica, Watmaugh, Flowery, Glen Ellen, Harvey and Enterprise school districts to decide the question whether a High School shall be maintained in Sonoma. The petition bears the signatures of the School Trustees and a large number of electors of the above districts. The cost of maintaining such a school will impose but a slight tax on the property owners of the school districts interested while the benefits to be derived from such an institution will be worth the tax ten times over.

Death of Young Fred. Lyons.

News comes from Coquille, Oregone, of the death of Fred. Lyons on June 9th. The disease that carried him off was diphtheria. The deceased young gentleman was the eldest son of James A. Lyons, a prominent business man of Coquille. He will be remembered in this town as having spent several terms at our public school about a year ago. Fred. was a young man of many excellent traits of character and was very [illegible] among his schoolmates, and his untimely demise is regretted by his many youthful friends and companions in Sonoma.

The Lone Peach Tree.

Alongside the rocky road leading from Lennox creek to the headwaters of Fowler creek, about five miles from town, is a peach tree about five feet in height and probably four years old that is literally loaded down with fruit. The tree is a mile or so from any habitation and must have sprung from a peach pit cast aside by some one passing along the road. That this tree should thrive and grow and bear fruit on a rocky hillside without irrigation, cultivation or pruning shows what the soil and climate of Sonoma Valley is capable of doing in the way of fruit.

Fine Oats.

There is on exhibition in the saloon of F. Grothaus samples of oats grown on the farm of Anton Kiser, a few miles south of town, that beats anything in the oat line that we have ever seen. One of the bunches contains nearly 100 stalks which are one mass of oats. When it is taken into consideration that these 100 stalks sprange from a single seed some idea can be gained of the fertility of the soil of our valley. Mr. Kiser's oat field is a large one and the samples mentioned above are a fair average of the stand of the entire field.

Heavy Fruit Crop.

Robert Hall, the owner of one of the largest orchards in this valley, estimates that his fruit crop this season will amount to five hundred tons. He reports all his fruit as looking exceptionally fine and free from blemish. He speaks highly of the I X L compound as an insect destroyer and tree fertilizer, and says had he not sprayed his his trees with that remedy his crop would have been cut down at least one-half by the different fruit pests.

Condensing Grape Must.

At the must condenser at Geyserville everything is in tip top shape, and the machinery looks as bright as a new dollar. Walter Scott, one of our most popular Healdsburg boys, is in charge of the establishment, and is living alone on the place. Last year fifteen hundred tons of grapes were condensed into must at the establishment, which has all been shipped, mostly to foreign countries. This year at least 1,500 tons of grapes will be used, and it is more than likely that the condenser will run to its fullest capacity. Seventy tons of grapes can be handled every ten hours, so that over 4,000 tons of grapes can be shipped in a season. Healdsburg Enterprise.

New Evidence

S. W. Bruggy, under sentence of death for the killing of Dick Lewison in February, 1890, has petitioned the Supreme Court for a rehearing of his case, and the request has been granted. This is not in accordance with the general custom of the Supreme Court, but as Bruggy is under sentence of death and claims to have new evidence his appeal was granted and the case will come up again.

The World Enriched.

The facilities of the present day for the production of everything that will conduce to the material welfare and comfort of mankind are almost unlimited and when Syrup of Figs was first produced the world was enriched with the only perfect laxative known, as it is the only remedy which is truly pleasing and refreshing to the taste and prompt and effectual to cleanse the system gently in the Spring time or, in fact, at any time and the better it is known the more popular it becomes.

GLEN ELLEN GOSSIP.

The picnic given by the Cooper's Union last Sunday was well attended.

Mrs. Wm. Sobbe took a day off last Thursday and visited her many Sonoma friends.

The Sunday School picnic advertised to be here to-day did not arrive owing to indications of rain.

Miss Fanny Law, who has been quite ill, returned from the St. Helena Sanitarium last Monday much improved in health.

Robt. P. Hill has donated a valuable collection of books to the Native Sons Parlor of this place. Bob is a prominent Native as likewise a way-up Granger.

Fishing in Sonoma Creek in this vicinity is still good, notwithstanding the numerous fishermen and the enormous catches claimed by some of them.

L. Pieratt of Nunn's canyon, near this place, who is an authority on fruit culture, states that his trees will produce about nine tons of cherries this season. He is now engaged in shipping the fruit and receives on an average five cents per pound for the same, mostly Royal Ann's.

The Bravest Five Hundred.

Very few people know that in the late civil war, out of the thousands of the heroes on the rolls, but five hundred were awarded the coveted distinction of medal of honor. The record of many of the exploits for which the medal has been given shows that they have been as grand as any in the age of chivalry, and that they shed a brillant lustre upon our national escutcheon. A new work just published tells the history of many of these heroes. It is grand, thrilling, exciting. Among the stories told by the boys in blue are the following: "A Minnesota Boy's First Battle," "Fighting Joe's Men," "A Hero of Antietam," "Foiling an Assassin," "The Soldier Scout's Story," "Three Thinking Bayonets," "The Salient at Spottsylvania," "Mars and Cupid at Gettysburg," "At the Cannon's Mouth," etc., etc. The work is beautifully illustrated with battle scenes and war pictures, also portraits of the gallant men who won the medal. Such a work is sure of an enormous sale in any community. Every old soldier's heart will beat with pride in reading it, and those who love deeds of daring and adventure will be infatuated with the modest, manly way in which these brave men tell their story. The work is called "The Bravest 500 of '61." It is sold by subscription by the well-known publishing house, The History Company of San Francisco. We call attention to their advertisement in another column.

A brand new organ has been purchased by the ladies of the Eastern Star. The instrument is of very fine tone and cost $150.

Settle Up Your Poll and Property Tax and Save Costs.

Deputy Assessor F. E. Dowd was in town several days this week collecting personal property and poll taxes which become deliuquent on July 1st. Up to the present time the people of Sonoma Township have been somewhat backward in paying the above taxes, and as only a few days more will elapse when they will become delinquent those who have not done so already should pay up without delay and save costs. To facilitate matters Mr. Dowd has authorized R. A. Poppe of this place and Chas. J. Poppe of Glen Ellen to receive and receipt for the above taxes.

A Pastoral.

Mrs. Timothy—Just see how fond the old rooster is of his family. How he scratches up worms and then calls all the hens around him and seems pleased to see them eat. Oh, I should think you might take a lesson from the brute beasts and learn to treat your wife decently.

Timothy—Yes, Maria, but in his case it is not always the same old hen.—Jury.

Traveler—I tell you, sir, the most admirable housekeeper that ever lived was my mother-in-law.

"And she is no longer living?"

"Alas, no! Eaten by the cannibals in Africa."

"You don't mean it?"

"It was even so. When the cannibals had thrust her into the caldron and she was beginning to cook she cried out faintly with her last words: 'Don't forget the salt and pepper!'"—Fliegende Blatter.

SONOMA INDEX - TRIBUNE.

SATURDAY, JUNE 20, 1891.

A Norwegian Independence Day.

Some of our schoolboys have opportunities to learn history without taking much trouble about it. In a large school there may be pupils of a dozen nationalities—Italian, Spanish, Swedish, Norwegian, French, German, Hebrew, Irish, Finnish, Russian—and each of these has its own national days, as we have ours on the Fourth of July and the Twenty-second of February. An American boy of inquiring mind will naturally want to know what those national days are, and what they commemorate.

Suppose we take the Seventeenth of May for an example, when all the Norwegian children like to be absent and have a good time somewhere. This is the national holiday of the Norwegian people. What happened on that day that the people of Norway should hold it in such honor?

A well informed Norwegian boy will answer that on May 17, 1814, the people of Norway "declared their independence." During the Bonaparte wars an attempt was made to unite Norway and Sweden on terms that would have been degrading to Norway, reducing her to the rank of a subject province. The people rose against this threatened indignity, and "declared their independence."

It happened that the king of Sweden was Bernadotte, one of the Bonaparte marshals, a man of much ability and some real insight into the nature of things. He proposed to Norway a kind of union that she could accept without loss of self respect; a union under one king, indeed, but also under one constitution, each state being soverign within itself, and each governing itself in all matters, local and domestic.

This constitution expressly declared that Norway should remain forever "free, independent, indivisible and inalienable." The union was, in fact, an application of the federal or home rule principle.

This constitution was adopted Nov. 4, 1814, but the day celebrated and beloved by Norwegians is May 17, when they declared that they would not be joined to Sweden except in an equal and honorable union.—Youth's Companion.

A Somnambulist on a Trestle.

George Wilson, fourteen years old, living in Rockport, had a narrow escape from death at an early hour Tuesday morning. The boy lives with his parents on a farm by the side of the river, about 200 feet from the Nickel Plate trestle bridge, the farm having a roadway leading to the bridge. The boy is subject to sleep walking. Early Thursday morning he got out of bed while in a somnambulistic condition and walked down stairs, passed his parents' room, and out on the farm.

He came to the trestle work and started to walk across. Deputy Marshal Stanton happened to be at the other end of the bridge and saw a white figure, small in stature, rapidly approaching. He stepped to one side until the boy had passed, and then started to follow him. Fearing that if he caught hold of him he might be frightened into a fit of sickness, he called him by name several times until the boy awoke. He stood for several minutes wondering where he was and almost fainted with fright. Stanton then walked up to him and the boy recognized him. The bridge is nearly sixty feet in height and there is nothing to walk on but ties.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Prehistoric Vault.

Some rude masonry was disclosed to view while cutting the lot of D. A. Purviance, on North Jefferson street, Huntington, Ind., to a proper level. About six feet below the natural surface of the earth a pile of stones was encountered which seemed to have been laid with a purpose. They formed an irregular hemispherical mass about 6 feet in diameter and 3 feet high, beneath which were formed layers of flagging, each layer formed by a flagstone 6 inches thick, 6 feet wide and 8 feet long. Below the mass of masonry and the flagstones was an empty vault. The stones were of the limestone variety, and were a kind that is never found in this vicinity unless they have been brought here. What the structure had been intended for is a mystery, but it is thought to have been the work of the mound builders.—Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette.

Rare Vestments for the Archbishop.

A set of vestments at the Cathedral that have attracted general attention from admirers of artistic embroidery were quite recently presented to Archbishop Corrigan. They are rose color, and are worn only on two days of the year, and are permitted to cathedrals and collegiate churches only throughout the world. They are embroidered in fine gold and artistic needlework. On the chasuble is the usual cross, and the figures on the cross and designs on the frontispiece are worked in silk of different colors, gold and silver on gold and silk radimir similar. This is a rare piece of art, and the workmanship is unusually fine and tasteful.—New York Herald.

Broad Street May Become Lincoln.

Among the bills introduced into select council was one by Mr. Beasley to change the name of Market street to Central avenue and Broad street to Lincoln avenue. The proposed change, Mr. Beasley said, was the idea of a number of business people along Market, Chestnut and other leading streets, who thought there should be some fitting monument to Lincoln in this city, and that nothing could be more appropriate than to name our most important thoroughfare for him. As Market street divided the city into north and south, it was suggested that it would be good for strangers to name it Central avenue.—Philadelphia Record

Fifty-nine Years in One House.

Henry W. Miller has completed the fifty-ninth year of continuous residence in the house at the corner of Pearl and Chestnut streets. He moved into this house the first Tuesday in May, 1832, the locality at the time being given up to farms. The first coal burning furnace ever used in Massachusetts was in service at his house during the winter of 1831-2.—Worcester Spy.

LADIES

Sang little TOTTINES have been made a work for us by Anna Page, Austin, Texas, and she, being industrious, often sews up. Others are doing as well. Why not you? Some women earn $20.00 a month. You can do the work and live at home, wherever you are. Even beginners earn something from 5 to $10 a day. All ages. We show you how and start you. Can work in spare time or all the time. Big money for workers. Failure unknown among them. NEW and WONDERFUL. Full particulars FREE.
